The Property of a well-known Private Collector

FINE RENAISSANCE BRONZES, FAIENCE, ETC.

- 47 A RARE PORTRAIT JUG, with ovoid body, short narrow neck, pointed spout and flat handle, painted in front on blue ground in an oval field within a frame of short radiating violet lines, the face of a woman in profile to dexter, in blue, green and ochre ; the two outermost zones of the field in lilac, white and green with floral motifs ; on the rest of the jug, arranged like a wreath round the oval field are pointed leaves, divided lengthwise into two colours, blue and ochre ; between them formal flower ornament in blue, also manganese violet bunches of leaves, and roses and dots ; on the handle green and manganese violet lines ; the ground white, lightly toned with lilac
Height 29 cm. Faenza, end of 15th Century
 * Formerly in the Collection of H.R.H. Luitpold, Duke of Bavaria. Pringsheim, plate 20, no. 33A and B, illustrates a similar Jug in form and decoration.
- 48 A LUSTRE DISH ON FOOT, painted in the centre with a full-length figure of a Bishop in a landscape, the border is moulded in relief, with wavy rays and circles, also leaves ; painting in blue, lustre, brown and carmine on yellowish-white ground ; on the back, on yellowish-white ground, concentric circles in red lustre Diameter 22½cm. Gubbio, about 1530
- 49 A RARE ORVIETO LARGE JUG with ribbed loop handle, on the cylindrical neck is a coat of arms in low relief, a column surmounted by a crown, the arms of the Roman family of Colonna ; round the arms and on the body of the jug are symmetrical leaves and bunches of grapes, the latter in low relief ; round the lower part of the Jug runs a frieze, with female and bearded male heads, in high relief alternating with pointed leaves ; the hatched lines are in violet, the leaves, grapes and column of the coat of arms tinted light green ; the ground is of yellow and rose crackled glaze, partly covered with violet diaper ; the inside has a lead glaze
Height 33 cm. About 1400
- 50 AN IMPORTANT LARGE ARMORIAL JUG, of massive oviform shape with a handle which has been strengthened on either side by two ribs ; the very peculiar ornamentation is partly painted and partly plastic in character ; round a coat of arms (of the Ubaldini or the Beconi) of a stag's head in brown and yellow

Height 40 cm. Florence, first half of the 15th Century

 From the Bode collection.

Cf. Bode, page 13, and plates 12 and 13.

- 51 A REMARKABLY FINE EARLY JAR, with oviform body and double handles, decorated with "Bunches of grapes with their leaves surrounding a lion's head, which, like the grapes is in relief and painted in ochre" (Bode); the lines in violet, grapes and leaves green on a lightly tinted grey ground, interior similar grey ground, fine condition

Height 24½ cm. Florence, early 15th Century

 From the Bode collection, and formerly from the Bardini collection; illustrated in colours in Bode's book, plate 9. Similar Jars are to be found in the Louvre, the Marcuard collection in Florence, and the Museum in Dublin. Further, H. Wallis's "Italian Ceramic Art, etc." and S. de Ricci's "Catalogue of early Italian Majolica, etc." refer to similar Jars.

- 52 A FINE AGATE CASKET, the sides and cover in red veined agate, supported on four gilt bronze lions' feet with acanthus ornament; on the four corners of the casket are gilt bronze Corinthian pilasters with enamel centres; the lower edge of the casket is also of enamel, and so is the inscribed upper edge; the sloping top is surmounted by a small bronze figure of a bearded warrior with sword and shield; inscription: "DEO HARPOCRATI S QUAM LAUDAS FORMAM NOSTRA FIDES SUPERAT DITI NEPTUNOQ DD"

Height 25 cm.; breadth 23 cm.; depth 17 cm. Augsburg, end of the 16th Century

 Formerly in the Castiglioni collection, and in the Moller von Aichholz collection, Vienna.

See Collection Camillo Castiglioni de Vienne (I.), catalogue 1925, sale no. 252.

- 53 A BRONZE INKSTAND, the body is three-sided and rests on three couchant lions ; immediately above are three mermaids, holding candle sockets on their heads ; the three sides are adorned with musical trophies, cornucopiae, and other motifs in low relief on a punched ground, on the third side the arms of the Doge of Venice ; above, in the middle on each side is the head of a young man, and decorative motifs also on a punched ground ; on the top is a statuette of a young man, holding the folds of his toga in his right hand

Height 28 cm. Venetian, end of the 16th Century

Height 60 cm. Hans Vischer, son of Peter Vischer the elder, died 1550

 There is an almost identical piece in the Bavarian National Museum in Munich. Illustrated in the Yearbook of the "Kgl. Preuss. Kstslg." vol. 29, pt. 1, and by W. von Bode, "Klein-Bronzen der Söhne des älteren Peter Vischer," plate 15. Also by Bode in "Geschichte der deutschen Plastik," Berlin, 1887, page 156, and by George Lill, "Deutsche Plastik," Berlin, 1925, plate to page 156, page 158, etc.

- 55 A FRENCH TAPESTRY PANEL, of narrow oblong shape woven with a dark brown ground thickly strewn with flowers ; on this floral ground are eight small rabbits, a unicorn, a stag, a hind, five large birds, and two coats of arms symmetrically disposed opposite to one another within wreaths of flowers flanked by helmets and halberds ; the colours are blue, green, beige and brown ; broad border with cornucopiae and formal foliage on a yellow ground, patterned in light blue and green

Length 22ft. ; width 3ft. 3in. End of the 16th Century, late Touraine school.

 See H. Gobel's "Wandteppiche," Leipzig, 1923, part 1, vol. II, plate 252, 251 and 254 for similar Panels.

Cf. Seymour de Ricci's "Catalogue of 20 Renaissance tapestries from the J. Pierpont Morgan Collection," Paris, 1930, plate 11.
